

WYLIE

Mayor for the day

Photo by CRAIG KELLY/City of Wylie

Wylie Mayor Eric Hogue was joined May 12 by Carter Riggins, a third-grader at Wylie's Birmingham Elementary School, who was "Mayor for the Day," a honor he garnered by supporting his school's PTA fundraising efforts. Riggins had pizza with Mayor Eric Hogue, took a tour of Wylie City Hall, was sworn in and called the Wylie City Council meeting to order. Carter loves to draw, play video games and ice hockey, and he is a fan of TCU. Mayor Hogue supports local elementary schools by hosting his young counterparts who bid successfully for the honor.

WYLIE ISD

Honoring teachers

Photo by IAN HALPERIN/Wylie ISD

Mayor Eric Hogue visited Wylie's Hartman Elementary May 15 to congratulate third-grade teacher Diane Klingbeil (left) and first-grade teacher Nancy Butler, both of whom have been teaching for 30 years, all at Hartman. The mayor arrived on a fire truck with lights and sirens, delivered their 30-year pins and spoke about the teachers' dedication to Wylie's youngsters.

One of the first. Considered the best.

Dr. Steven Reeder, founder of Reeder Vein Institute, was one of the first physicians to be certified by the American Board of Venous and Lymphatic Medicine. Since 2005, Dr. Reeder has been a leader in the comprehensive treatment of all aspects of vein disease.

Reticular and spider veins ■ Varicose veins ■ Venous stasis dermatitis ■ Lipodermatosclerosis
 Venous ulcers ■ Thrombophlebitis ■ Post-thrombotic syndrome ■ Lymphedema

Patients may have the best looking legs ever imagined and just in time for summer.

Our minimally invasive techniques allow nearly all patients to be treated in the office under local anesthesia only, with excellent cosmetic results, and relief of the aching, swelling, and inflammation associated with chronic venous disease.

Reeder Vein Institute - considered by patients and physicians to be the best.

"Please know how much I appreciate your expertise in helping me reclaim my "girl legs" after so many years of living with unsightly varicosities, and throbbing painful legs." – Reesa F.

"Dr. Reeder has been taking care of varicose veins for many years, long before it was popular for doctors to treat them. His experience is highly valuable because he knows what to do, and more importantly, what not to do." – Dr. Marc H.

Reeder Vein Institute
reedervein.com

7777 Forest Lane, Building B, Suite 248
 Dallas, Texas 75230

972-566-3040

4840 Bryant Irvin Ct. Suite 104
 Fort Worth, Texas 76107

817-438-7260

COMPLIMENTARY PARKING Bring your parking ticket to our office for validation.